For 120 years ...

1878
1896

The Flögl family from Zell opens the "Hotel am See" in 1878. Back then, it is a small building. However, the family is forced to file for bankruptcy just one year later. In 1896, successors Carl and Therese Böhm breathe new life into the hotel. Extensive construction measures turn the hotel into a magnificent promoterist building and it is given the name "Grandhotel am See".

1902 – 1918

With the installation of electric light, modern luxury reigns in the "Grandhotel am See". During the summer, 25,000 overnight stays are recorded. In 1918, after the break it was forced to take during the First World War, the hotel is sold to Karl Pischkittl and experiences a brief upswing during the 1930s.

1965

During the Second World War, the building is used as a billet for the US occupying power. Due to several major blazes, it loses all sense of comfort. In 1955, Karl Gramshammer purchases the ramshackle building for the symbolic sum of one Austrian Schilling, and rebuilds it in the style of the time. The hotel is the setting for several films and the "Grand" regains its popularity. In 1965, however, the walls start to crumble. A storm tide causes further substantial damage.

GRAND FACTS

- I. Depending on the season, around 120 members of staff are employed at the GRAND HOTEL. Chef Bernd Bereuter has been an important member of staff for 25 years now.
- II. The "Wunderbar" was located on the sixth floor of the Imperial wing between 1986 and 2000. Instead of the bar, two luxury suites with a fantastic view are now planned.

1984 – 1995

In 1984, the hotel is owned by a Swedish timeshare company. First of all it is completely demolished and then rebuilt as a suite hotel, maintaining its original promoterist architecture. In 1995, the timeshare company opens composition proceedings. The Holleis family buys the Grand Hotel and the neighbouring Clima Hotel, combing the two to make the GRAND HOTEL ZELL AM SEE.

- III. Empress Elisabeth – known as “Sisi” – visited Zell am See and the Schmittenhöhe on 9 August 1885. Carl Haschke built the Elisabethkapelle in memory of her between 1904 and 1905.
- IV. Zell am See had a population of around 1,000 and 3,000 hotel beds between 1928 and 1930.

1998 – 2003

In 1998, the hotel – with the support of the new Imperial Café-Bar – is once again given a new lease of life in the form of the good spirit of old Austrian hotel culture. In 2003, Dr Holleis gets the famous Austrian artist Friedensreich Hundertwasser to build the Österreichbrunnen in the hotel garden.

2008 – 2016

In 2008, an exclusive spa area is built on the fourth and fifth storeys of the wellness wing. The GRANDSPA combines tradition with the zeitgeist, and its magnificent panorama views are breath-taking. The imperial Kaisersaal restaurant is extended on a large scale in 2014-2015, and the lake bar is erected. A new underground garage comprising 84 parking spaces is also built. A new era is rung in at the start of 2016: the Casino Austria opens its doors in the wellness wing of the hotel.

... a place to relax.

Moments of relaxation.

Experience precious moments in our luxurious hideaway for those in search of rest and relaxation. Where? In the heart of the establishment, the GRANDSPA. Alpine well-being.

Crystal-clear mountain air.

A deep breath of clear mountain air between the blue sky, lush green meadows and the earthy fragrance of the forests. The special air which reigns amongst the impressive mountain backdrop is not only a relief for most summiteers – it is proven to have a positive influence on our health. The air on the mountain acts as a tonic for the circulation and protects against heart disease. Why is that? A holiday at high altitudes is the equivalent of a workout for the heart. The low oxygen content of the air means that the heart has to pump more blood through the body in order to provide it with sufficient oxygen. The mountain air also has a positive effect on those suffering from allergies. For all those wishing to lose a couple of pounds: studies have proven that the mountain air suppresses the appetite. Take a deep breath and enjoy the healthy effect of the mountain air!

Mountains, summits and eternal ice.

Climb majestic glaciers.

Up the imposing summit, into breath-taking nature. Surrounded by the highest peaks in Austria, a unique view is revealed on the Kitzsteinhorn – glittering summits as far as the eye can see. A world in which mountains, summits and eternal ice show themselves from their most impenetrable sides. Both mysterious and impressive. A paradise for rambles, experienced hikers and climbers covers an area over 3,000 metres. The impressive glacier is also the perfect setting for long walks between the summits which take on an icy shimmer. For a more gentle alpine journey of discovery, you can ascend the glacier by means of the Kitzsteinhorn cable car. Bearer of the “Best Austrian summer cable car” seal, it stands for the highest standard of quality, regular strict inspections and a varied range of offers. The Kitzsteinhorn has always had a trailblazer and pioneer role, and is considered a visionary model for all other glacier areas. Following a refreshing hike on the glacier in the alpine massif, be prepared to be lured by Lake Zell down in the valley. Take a dip and enjoy the unique combination of water in its various forms.
